Certificate in Principles of End of Life Care

Level 2 ⋮ 135gh ⋮ 16 credits

Everyone facing life-limiting illness will need some degree of supportive care, in addition to effective treatment for their condition. The Level 2 Certificate in the Principles of End of Life Care is designed to provide learners with a broad understanding of end of life and palliative care, enabling them to provide sensitive and appropriate support to people nearing the end of life and their families.

Who is it for?

The course will be ideal for health and social care workers who wish to improve their knowledge and understanding of end of life care and palliative care. It also has relevance to all types of care settings, including hospices, care homes, care in the community and primary care.

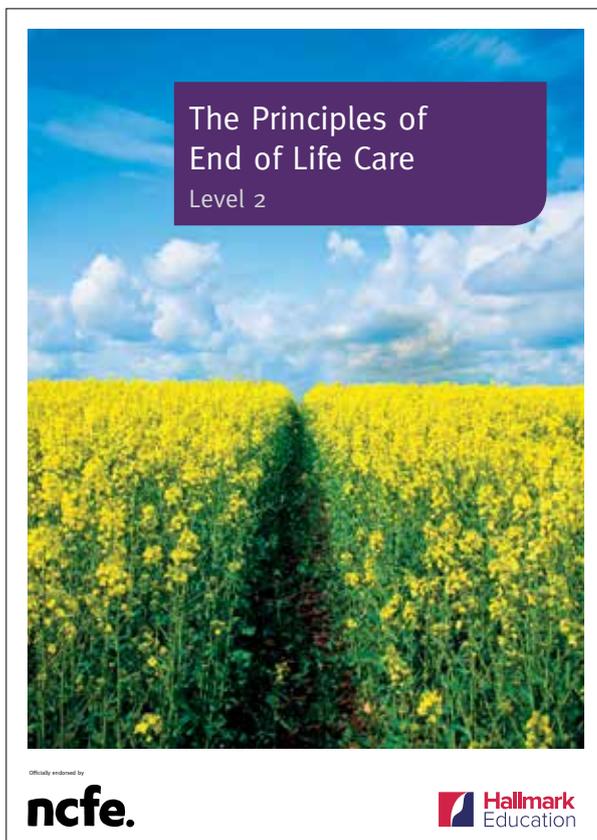

What are the benefits of doing this course?

The course aims to develop the learner's knowledge and understanding of: the different perspectives on death and dying; the aims of end of life care; the principles of personcentred care planning; the support needed to manage pain and discomfort; how dementia impacts on an individual's end of life care; the role of the health and social care worker at the time of death; and how to appropriately support the bereaved.

As well as enabling learners to achieve a nationally recognised qualification, this course will help to encourage good practice in the workplace. The course also provides employers with a structured training programme, mapped to the National Occupational standards in Health and Social Care, which will help to meet the training requirements of their employees, giving peace of mind that staff are equipped with the knowledge they need to support people at the end of life.

A further benefit of using Hallmark's flexible learning resources is that staff can complete their programme at times and locations convenient to them, removing the need for them to spend time at college or away from work for long periods.
